Diocesan Curia, Bishop Howard Memorial Auditorium, Covington, Kentucky 41011. Tuesday, January 9th, 2024, 6:00 PM to 8:30 PM.

Fr. Jeff would like to share with you the text of the presentation that Linda Connelly gave at St. Patrick on December 16th & 17th. (Thank you Linda!)

Marie Eustelle Harpain, known as "the angel of the Eucharist", was born in a small western French town in 1814. She was a pious child, but by 10 years old, she became proud, self-pleasing and vain, enjoying parties and dancing with her many friends. Her mother worried that she would continue on the path away from God. At 12 years old, before Marie was to be sent away from home to apprentice under a seamstress, her mother wished her to receive her First Holy Communion. As soon as Marie heard that she was to begin to prepare for her First Communion, she almost immediately and completely ceased the playful, pleasure-filled life she loved so much. She paid more attention to prayer, was more loving to others and less self-indulging. Her many friends mocked her brutally for this new conversion. On the feast of Corpus Christi, Marie Eustelle received Jesus in the Eucharist for the first time and was given the sacrament of Confirmation the same day, a common practice in that time.

After her apprenticeship, she became a laundry maid and skilled seamstress who was put in charge of maintaining the linens and vestments at her local church, St. Pallais. Here she took private vows of poverty and chastity. Given a key to the church, she would spend her nights in adoration before the Blessed Sacrament and her simple life was given to the love and worship of Jesus hidden in the Tabernacle. She felt her one burning purpose was to awaken a true devotion to the Most Holy Eucharist in the hearts of her fellow countrymen.

When her parish priest would bring Holy Communion to a sick villager, Marie Eustelle would follow at a short distance, praying earnestly for the one who was about to receive it. Her Bishop, Cardinal Clement Vellecourt, asked her to write an account of her life. He had it published 10 months after her death, along with a letter from him, describing his powerful impression of her from their very first meeting on. In her life account, she describes her visions and ecstasies she experienced during the last three years of her life. In it, she wrote that she frequently saw Jesus as she prepared to finish her prayers at the Altar. Of Jesus, she said, "There is a grace which this tender Friend of Souls often grants me when being alone with Him. I love to kiss the foot of the Altar before leaving Him," she said. "He deigns to manifest Himself to my soul and show me His Sacred Feet, inviting me to imprint upon them the kiss which I was about to give to the Altar step." Sometimes she saw Jesus in the Sacred Host as the priest held it up at Consecration or she saw Jesus Himself offering Mass in the person of the priest with heavenly spirits attending Him.

She wrote about her experience on one particular Sunday when the moment of consecration was near: She felt her soul penetrated with thoughts of holy grandeur of the Holy Sacrifice and she saw a path of light reaching from heaven down to the Altar, bordered by clouds of silvery whiteness, upon which rested multitudes of celestial spirits, who appeared waiting for the great moment when their Lord should come down to offer Himself to the heavenly Father as a Victim for His creatures. So clear was this sight to Eustelle's soul, that it seemed she saw it with her own eyes, while her mind was filled with a sense of her unworthiness of the great love of Him who thus descended upon the Altar of Sacrifice.

Marie Eustelle was known to frequently receive Holy Communion, which was then an uncommon practice, one only made common decades later by now Saint Pope Pius X. Referring to the Eucharist, she said, "It is at that source of all good that you must often go and draw. Oh, if the people of the world but knew what exquisite pleasures are tasted at that Sacred Banquet, I do not doubt that they would renounce all their false joys and take long inebriating draughts at the fountainhead of everlasting truth. As for you who already tasted of this ineffable joy, be diligent to increase it by receiving Communion as frequently as possible. Place all your delight in this Divine Aliment. Let Jesus in the Eucharist be all in all to you."

Marie eventually became weaker and weaker as she was affected by illness after illness. She was no longer able to follow the priest when he brought the Eucharist to the sick and Easter Tuesday of 1842 was the last time she knelt before Jesus in the Tabernacle. In her sickness and weakness, she allowed Christ to dwell in her as she looked forward to her twice a week reception of Holy Communion. She died in her hometown on June 29, 1842, at the age of 28. Her virtues made her deeply loved by all who knew her, and they all believed she had passed from earth to dwell in God's presence forever. Her life story is told in an 1868 book titled The Life of Marie Eustelle Harpain by Catholic writer Edward Healy Thompson.

French sources say her cause for sainthood was originally introduced in 1921 but was halted in 1958. It is believed that it was halted because her postulator was also working on the causes of priests who died on prison ships near the city of Rochefort after the French Revolution. It is thought that Marie's cause was pushed aside as a result. Yet on November 8, 2022, the French bishops endorsed the possible beatification cause of Marie Eustelle Harpain. At just over 100 years from the initiation of her cause for sainthood, it is quite possible she will soon be known as "Blessed" Marie Eustelle Harpain, one step closer to being officially canonized a Saint!

Marie Eustelle Harpain, "angel of the Eucharist", pray for us.

Asking for help is often not easy, especially when it's you who is feeling down, overwhelmed, irritable or anxious. Our tendency is to think it will just go away, or even believe those negative messages that run through our heads that say things like: "Maybe I'm just no good."
