Saint Gemma

Saint Gemma Galgani had a short but remarkable life. She was born in 1878 in Lucca, Italy and developed a great devotion to prayer and the Mass from her mother who died when she was a young girl.

A devotion to Christ's Passion blossomed in her from the Passionist nuns who educated her after her mother's passing. The Eucharist and the Passion of Christ were one in her heart. When she made her First Communion at age 9 (a young age for this sacrament at the time) she prayed fervently for the grace "to know perfectly the life and Passion of Jesus."

Due to chronic poor health, Gemma was forced to quit school before completing her studies. Causing her to leave the nuns she dearly loved. At the age of 19 her father died leaving her and seven siblings without either parent. After being a mother figure to her siblings for a while, Gemma moved in with her aunt and uncle, but shortly after, became seriously ill with meningitis.

She was moved back to Lucca, where her illness caused her to be bedridden with paralysis in her arms and legs, gave her migraine headaches and partial deafness. Her doctors tried everything they could to help her, but she only became worse. They had given up hope for a cure and expected her to pass away.

Gemma was given a book on the life of then venerable, and now Saint, Gabriel Possenti, whom she began to pray to for his intercession. He appeared to her multiple times in visions giving her strength and encouragement. Eventually, through his intercession, she was miraculously healed. Although healed, she continued to suffer from persistent weakness.

She hoped to join the Passionist nuns, but her chronic bad health caused her to be refused multiple times.

Instead, she took private religious vows and lived a quiet, prayerful life with a family her confessor asked to take Gemma in.

While living with this family, more incredible graces were given to Gemma and she experienced visions, locutions and the stigmata, which appeared every Thursday and stopped the next day, leaving white marks where the wounds had been.

Gemma could see and speak to her guardian angel, often sending him on errands to deliver messages to her confessor who lived in Rome.

She also saw and had conversations with Jesus. Several times, He gave her the grace of seeing His crucifixion. This caused Gemma deep sorrow for all sins, and gave her the desire to suffer with Jesus in reparation for them.

Gemma was often found in a state of ecstasy and her words were recorded by her confessor or a member of the family she lived with.

Although her life was hidden, these recorded ecstasies, as well as, her letters, diary and autobiography were made public after her death.

Her writings are a treasure trove of Eucharistic insights.

In one entry she wrote, "Is it possible that there are souls who do not understand what the Blessed Eucharist is? Who are insensible to the Divine Presence...to the mysterious and fervent effusions of the Sacred Heart of my Jesus? O Heart of Jesus! Heart of love!"

In another entry she wrote, "Yesterday, in the presence of Jesus in the Blessed Sacrament I felt myself burning so fiercely that I had to go away. I felt stunned that so many could stay so close to Jesus and not be reduced to ashes. I felt I would be consumed. Jesus is such a sweet and irresistible Lover; how can one fail to love Him with one's whole heart and soul? How can one not wish to be wholly united to Him, and consumed in the flames of His holy love?"

Daily Gemma was eager to receive Jesus in the Eucharist, yet aware of her unworthiness, sometimes she would get red-faced with embarrassment before the Lord.

She once commented, "Jesus gives me all of Himself, though I give Him nothing worthy in return. I always ask Him for so many things, and to tell the truth, I am afraid of wearying Him, but He says no and not to worry. Blessed be Jesus!"

In early 1903 Gemma was diagnosed with tuberculosis. A few months later, at the age of 25, she died on April 11th, Holy Saturday. She died with a smile on her face.

Thirty years later, she was canonized a Saint on May 2, 1933 by Pope Pius XII.

Despite her many sufferings, St. Gemma was known for her kindness and sympathy for the poor. She offered her sufferings in union with those of Jesus for the atonement of the world's sins.

Like Saint Gemma, we can also offer up any sufferings God sends to us in reparation for all the sin in the world.

Saint Gemma, patron saint of students, pharmacists, tuberculosis patients, spinal injury, migraines, love and hope, pray for us!

(Thank you Linda!)
